A Framingham man was arrested today after the car he was driving struck a police cruiser during a chase in which he ran into a Natick office building where he locked himself in a vacant room.

Jonathan Arizandieta, 21, will face multiple charges relating to the incident, including assault and battery with a dangerous weapon - a car - and leaving the scene of an accident, said Framingham Deputy Chief Craig Davis.

No one was injured in the incident.

Arizandieta will also be charged with driving without a license, which is how the chase began, police said.

Lieutenant Kevin Slattery was assisting other officers in searching for a stolen vehicle in Framingham near the border of Natick when Slattery recognized Arizandieta as being unlicensed to drive and pursued him, police said.

"We've seen him before," Davis said, but would not elaborate.

According to police, the car Arizandieta was driving struck Slattery's cruiser during the pursuit and Arizandieta ran to an office building at 182 West Central St., in Natick.

Framingham police, assisted by state and Natick officers, discovered Arizandieta had locked himself in a vacant office on the second floor. Police obtained a key to the door around 15 minutes later and arrested the man at around 10:45 a.m., Davis said.

Employees of several businesses in that building were told by police to lock their offices until the man was arrested.

The car Arizandieta was driving was not stolen, said Davis.

Davis said the Arizandieta was being held at Framingham Police headquarters Wednesday awaiting arraignment in Framingham District Court.

He also faces charges of refusal to stop for an officer, disorderly conduct and drug possession - a small amount of marijuana - police said.
