A two-alarm fire late-afternoon yesterday destroyed most of a two-story, single-family Lexington home, authorities said.

When firefighters arrived, heavy flames showed on both floors of 47 Vaille Ave., Lexington Fire Department Lieutenant John Mazerall said.

The occupants were evacuated. No injuries were reported, he said. No further information was available from town fire officials.

The town appraises the property's value at $1.6 million, including a $1.1-million assessment of the 5,500 square-foot, 10-room home built in 2006, according to the town website.

Chatham beaches are closed to swimming due to shark concerns

Chatham’s eastern ocean-facing beaches have been closed to swimming until further notice after multiple reports of increased great white shark activity in the area, the town’s Department of Parks and Recreation says. Several fishermen have reported white sharks in their nets off-shore. The Division of Marine Fisheries has also spotted numerous white sharks close to shore in the vicinity of swimmers, Dan Tobin, director of parks and recreation, said in a statement.
