A three-week repaving project will temporarily ban parking on one side of a stretch of Western Avenue in Allston.

Starting Tues. June 5, parking will not be allowed along the northern side of Western Ave. between the approximately Travis and Hague streets, an announcement from the city said.

Paving work along the one-third mile stretch of road will be done between 7 a.m. and 5 p.m. on weekdays and between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. on Saturdays, the notice said. Once the paving is finished, striping work will be done at nighttime.

Access to properties in the construction area will remain open throughout the project, officials said. Barriers, signage and police details will be arranged when necessary to direct traffic.

The project's start and end dates may be delayed if there is inclement weather during the period, according to the notice.
