Results of recent water testing at Mass. public schools

The following list, sorted alphabetically by town, shows results for recent testing of water at public schools around the state. The column on the far right indicates if a school passed water tests or if it failed, with at least one water source testing above regulatory standards for lead, copper, or both. Public schools not listed below have either not yet been tested or results are still pending. Some schools may be doing testing independent of the ongoing statewide program.
